Venice considers gambling offer

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

VENICE — This town, one of the poorest suburbs in the nation according to government statistics, could get an infusion of cash from riverboat gambling.

Richard Werner of Spanish Lake, Mo., represents a partnership called Little Trumpe Enterprises. He said the city could realize "more than $400,000 a year" from two gambling riverboats the partnership wants to base in Venice.

Werner said the company also wants to build a floating entertainment center and dock at the site of the Venice boat ramp, north of the McKinley Bridge. He pitched the partnership's proposal Thursday to a committee composed of members of the City Council.

Little Trumpe has pitched the City of East St.

Louis previously, but Werner said if Venice endorses the latest proposal the partnership will withdraw its application to East St. Louis.

"I think (Venice is) a lot more stable than East St. Louis," Werner said. "I was a lot more impressed with the way they handled things. They hammered me pretty hard ... about my proposal."

The East St. Louis City Council recently ranked four riverboat gaming proposals it had received but then rescinded the ranking after some debate. Little Trumpe was ranked third.

Werner said the partnership — whose principals he would not disclose — was willing to offer either percentages of gross receipts or profits, "plus some other concessions" to the city in exchange for its endorsement.

Under the Illinois riverboat gambling law, municipalities or counties must approve specific gambling operations in order for them to be licensed by the state.

Werner said Little Trumpe would also welcome minority investors — something he said East St. Louis had insisted on.

Werner said the Venice site would be easier to develop because there is no flood wall separating the river from the shore, as there is in East St. Louis.

He said the company would pay for building a parking lot but would require the city to deed over city property for it.

Mayor Tyrone Echols said he had talked to Vince and Rich Saugat, of Arch-View Cruises Inc., another potential riverboat gambling group, but no representative of that group showed up Thursday.

The Saugat group had applied to East St. Louis and was ranked fourth in the rescinded ranking. It.

GRANITE CITY — The city is not hiring a firm to collect yard waste separately from other garbage, as mandated by state law, so residents must choose among several competing companies.

The three-year contract approved Tuesday between the city and Laidlaw Waste Management Systems covers trash collection but does not include yard waste such as leaves and grass clippings.

"We didn't have any other choice," said 6th Ward Alderman Judy Whitaker. She said the city does not have the money to pay for more than garbage collection.

Yard waste must be collected separately beginning July 1. On that date, it will no longer be allowed in landfills.

Brett Hanke, public works director, said he knows of two collection firms, Laidlaw and Waste Management Inc., that are already making yard waste collection services available in Granite City. These and other companies are advertising their services in the area.

GRANITE CITY — There appears to be no end in sight to traffic delays for motorists using the Poplar Street Bridge complex.

While resurfacing work on Interstate 55/70 approaching the bridge should be finished by month's end, the second phase of reconstruction to the approach complex's western end will begin as soon as the Illinois Department of Transportation accepts a contract bid.

According to District Engineer Dale Klohr, IDOT will decide within the next two weeks whether to approve one of two bids for construction that were submitted June 15.

Once the three-year project begins, Klohr said rush hour delays will triple commuter time. Originally scheduled to begin in April or May 1990, the renovation project has been postponed twice because IDOT rejected bids that exceeded projected costs.

Klohr said the I-55/70 resurfacing is part of separate crop of repairs conducted by the highway department. Much of the $5.6 million repair project that started last fall, which includes patching the existing concrete pavement, repairing highway shoulders, and installing underdrains, has already been completed.

Meanwhile, the transportation department is suggesting other routes for motorists seeking to avoid delays.

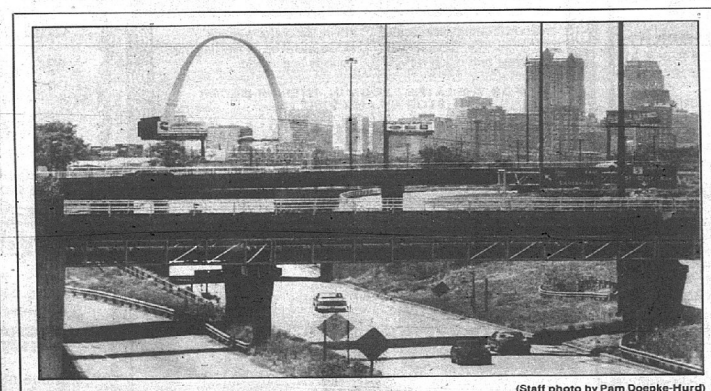

Herb Shotwell, district 8 construction engineer for IDOT, recommended taking I-255 to the Jefferson Barracks Bridge or I-270 to the Chain of Rocks Bridge. Taking Illinois 3 to the McKinley Bridge is another possible route.

Shotwell said workers begin to close lanes along I-55/70 at 8 a.m. and work until 4:30 p.m. In July, the transportation department will begin $4.4 million in repairs to the bridge crossing Cauteen Creek, which lies north of Cahokia Mounds State Park, and to the stretch of I-55/70 over Illinois 111.

Shotwell said congestion should not be too severe in these areas. The smaller projects are slated for completion by June 1991.

Renovation to the bridge complex began two years ago with major repairs to the Martion Luther King Bridge. The complex also includes the Eads Bridge.

THE VIEW FROM Exchange Avenue overpass in East St. Louis looking west at Interstate 64 and Interstate 55/70.

... possible alternate routes

METRO EAST — Taking the McKinley Bridge is by far the best alternate route to avoid tie ups on the Poplar Street Bridge.

That conclusion is based on a drive of several alternate routes starting at the intersection of Johnson and Nameoki roads, approximately the geographic center of Granite City, and driving to Memorial Drive in St. Louis.

The drives were done at off-peak periods with dry pavement and clear weather.

The trip takes about 17 minutes by way of the McKinley Bridge. Drivers may find the faster ride worth paying the 50-cent toll and withstanding bumper roads than found on the other alternate routes.

Going by way of McKinley Bridge also compares favorably with taking the Poplar Street Bridge route, which takes about 15 minutes.

Although taking I-270 to the Chain of Rocks Bridge north of Granite City may make for a smoother ride, it is a considerably longer one at 48 minutes to reach Memorial Drive.

The longest route between Memorial Drive and the corner of Nameoki and Johnson Roads is following I-255 south to the Jefferson Barracks Bridge. The drive takes just more than an hour. There is very little traffic on any stretch of that route, however.

Beware of recluse spider outdoors, in old furniture

By Kevin Foster
Staff writer

MONROE COUNTY — Heavy rains during the spring not only led to wet fields, canceled ball games and damp basements, it also has led to an increase in poisonous spiders, including the brown recluse spider.

Several auction houses have reported that they have seen increased sightings this spring of the brown recluse spiders in old houses, furniture and quiet, dark and undisturbed places.

Although the spiders may grow to a length of a few inches, they pack a deadly bite. In adults, the bite could lead to severe pain and swelling of the immediate area bitten as well as abdominal cramps that could be confused with indigestion or appendicitis. Bites in children can be deadly.

Donald Meyer, a zoologist with Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, said that brown recluse spiders are native to southern Illinois.

Meyer explained that the wet weather and standing pools have spawned an overpopulation of other types of insects, such as mosquitoes, which the spiders eat.

Auctioneers have warned people to beware of dark places, such as basements, attics and crawl spaces, where the spiders live. One auctioneer said the spiders are attracted to furniture that is not disturbed often.

Another auctioneer said he recently removed furniture from a house in Waterloo and there were "hundreds" of brown recluse spiders.

Red Cross to sow 'seeds' at annual meeting Tuesday

The Tri-City Chapter of the American Red Cross will conduct its annual meeting Tuesday. The theme will be "Sowing Seeds of Service."

Everyone attending is asked to dress in country and western, gardening, or farming attire. The festivities of the evening will follow the theme.

The meeting will be held at the Calvary Pentecostal Assembly Church, 4650 Maryville Road. The meeting will be in the Fellowship Hall and will begin at 7:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

The purpose of the meeting is to nominate and elect new board members and board officers for the Tri-City Chapter's upcoming fiscal year, which will begin on July 1. Ongoing board members will be honored.

Members of the community can become eligible to vote by participating in the annual Red Cross Membership Campaign.

Since the 1940s, the Red Cross has annually conducted membership campaigns to increase its membership for voting on the leaders of the local chapter.

Membership has different levels of giving, with a minimum amount of $1 for membership. The Tri-City Chapter has been conducting its membership campaign since May 1 and will continue until the annual meeting.

Those interested may donate membership dues at the local Red Cross office, 1907 Delmar Ave., or call 452-7184 for further information.

Goldenrod Showboat to move

ST. LOUIS — Something is missing from the Harbor of Abandoned Boats, otherwise known as the St. Louis Riverfront.

The boat has been on the riverfront since 1937, when it pulled in for temporary repairs. Built in 1908, it was one of the last surviving showboats, complete with melodramas, including villains with false mustaches and wonderfully horrible puns.

The Goldenrod hasn't had a melodrama for years and probably won't to St. Charles, either. The New York company that will run the boat for the owner (the city of St. Charles) will produce regular plays.

NOTICE

The City of Granite City Street Department, as of July 1st and thru August and September, will not pick up any brush or trees. Do not put any material in the street or on the curbside. Material must be picked up by a private hauler.

SEMC offers weight program

GRANITE CITY — St. Elizabeth Medical Center's Obesity Treatment Clinic has added the OptiTrim Program for those 20 to 50 pounds overweight.

Anyone who is interested in the program is encouraged to attend the free OptiTrim orientation at 7 p.m. June 26 in the Wellness Center gymnasium, 2103 Iowa St.

According to a spokesman, OptiTrim employs a specially trained medical staff to guide patients safely toward their weight-loss goals. These health care professionals, including physicians, nurses, registered dietitians and behavioral specialists, work with patients to ensure that weight loss is maintained.

OptiTrim patients undergo a thorough medical and behavioral screening before enrolling in the program. During the program, patients are monitored medically each week to ensure safe progress. The screening and medical monitoring are essential, because a variety of health risks are especially prevalent among overweight individuals, including high blood pressure, heart disease and diabetes, the spokesman said.

After screening, OptiTrim patients begin the 18-week program, which combines portion-controlled meals with a liquid meal replacement. OptiTrim patients are focused on controlling their portion sizes, limiting the variety of food eaten and changing overall eating behaviors to maintain their loss long term.

Those who wish more information should call SEMC's Obesity Treatment Clinic at 798-3939.

Driving laws also apply to bicyclists

Bicycling is fun and good exercise, but it is also an important responsibility. When you ride in the street, you must follow all traffic safety laws that apply to vehicle drivers.

The following laws and safety rules are particularly important for bicyclists:

•Always ride with the traffic flow as close as possible to the right edge of the road.

•Obey all traffic signals and pavement markings.

•Use hand signals to let drivers know your intentions.

•Wear a helmet that does not block your vision or impair your hearing. Although helmets are not required by Illinois law, wearing one greatly reduces your chances of receiving a serious head injury in an accident.

•Do not pass on the right.

$10.25 million lawsuit against Yellow Pages

By David Migoya
Staff writer

A $10.25 million lawsuit filed by 10 area businesses against the publishers of the nation's largest marketer of yellow pages and Illinois Bell claims they were bilked out of advertising dollars for nearly 15 years.

Additional lawsuits are expected to be filed in the next few weeks, which could bring the total to more than $202 million, said Rex Carr, the attorney for the businesses.

According to the suit, the businesses claim they were misled by sales representatives into advertising in both the East St. Louis and Belleville directories in order to gain the best market penetration in Fairview Heights. The 30-count suit says some businesses have been paying for useless advertising for nearly 15 years in the East St. Louis directory, believing that book reached a portion of Fairview Heights.

While the alleged scam is illegal, no criminal charges would likely result from the suit if wrongdoing was proven, Carr said.

The suit was the first of nearly two dozen still to be filed. According to Carr, more than 200 area retailers and companies have been bilked by the Donnelley Directory, publishers of the Ameritech PagesPlus.

Dick Bolton, director of communication at Donnelley, said, "This company has very high ethical standards. Any salesman who does this sort of thing most certainly wouldn't be with the company long."

Bolton refused to comment further without first looking at the suit.

The manager of Donnelley's Collinsville office couldn't be reached for comment. That office has 10 sales representatives and covers portions of Madison, St. Clair, Monroe, Randolph, Bond, Clinton and Washington counties.

The first suit names as plaintiffs businesses from Belleville, Cahokia, East St. Louis, Fairview Heights and Granite City. However, Carr said more businesses from other communities are involved.

The alleged scam came to light a few years ago when an area businessman learned about it through a marketing consultant he hired, Carr said.

"The consultant made some calls and found no one in Fairview Heights got the East St. Louis book," Carr said.

The man was given a refund, Carr said, and then he began calling other advertisers telling them his story.

Carr wouldn't identify the businessman or how much money he was refunded, but did say documentation exists to verify the claim.

Carr said he expects the suits to stay in the courts for at least a year.

The telephone directory is published with permission of Illinois Bell Telephone Co. in cooperation with Ameritech Publishing of Illinois Inc.

Illinois Bell collects the advertising dollars in monthly billings.

According to Bolton, Donnelley directories are published in nearly every state. In Illinois, sales "reach into the several hundred millions of dollars a year," he said.

Perry Family reunion held

Maxine Duniphan covers the Mitchell area for the Press-Record/Journal. She can be contacted at 831-2714.

Velma (Perry) Presley of Bankley Avenue and her sister, Gayle (Perry) Carr of Granite City, were the hosts for the Perry Family reunion on June 9. It was held in the Fellowship Hall at Faith Chapel Church, 664 Ashland Ave., Mitchell.

Streamers and balloons decorated the hall and a beautiful floral arrangement centered the head table. Family pictures dating back some prior to 1915 were displayed. Included among the photos were a wedding picture of the hostesses' parents, the late Charles and Flora Bell Perry, and pictures of their grandparents from both sides of the Perry family.

The day was spent visiting, reminiscing and taking photographs for display at future reunions, and concluded with a hymn singalong.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Charles and Geraldine Perry and their grandson, Casey Perry, of Bertrand, Mo.; Karen Julian of Chesapeake, Va.; Jesse and Olga Perry of Charleston, Mo.; Allen and Julie Gorton of Arlington, Texas; Sue Bartzel of Atlantic Beach, Fla.; Jim and Carol McNeely of St. Peters, Mo.

A Sunday school picnic on the church grounds, featuring games and refreshments, will culminate the week's activities on Saturday, June 30, from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Each day the "sailors" will simulate travel back to Jesus' time to different ports or seaports mentioned in the New Testament. While visiting these ports, the "sailors" will become acquainted with people from Biblical times who knew Jesus.

Music will be led by Carolyn Jenkins and Carol Farnsworth, accompanied by Chris McMillan. "Mates" to help with classes are Allison Hatcher, Kathleen Reider, Allison Whitmer and Holly Farnsworth.

Refreshments will be served by Virginia Wolfe.

Wooden crafts have been created by Lee Reid and Bob Bischoff and sand dollars are being shipped here from Fort Meyers Beach, Fla., by the Stanford family.

The ministers are Ralph Totten and John Walter, who are assisted by Hugh Wallace and Vernon Brown. Leaders of the Bible school are Jennie Lynn Totten and Barbara Hall.

Gambling

has also proposed building a floating gambling casino in the Village of Sauget, but that would require the village to first cede property to St. Clair County and then get the county to accept it because the village is too small to qualify as a home port under the state gaming law.

That proposal requires the approval of the St. Clair County Board. The board's finance committee recently voted against the proposal 4-2.

Venue's gaming committee will convene again at 6:30 p.m. Monday to consider any additional proposals, before making its recommendation to the City Council at 7 p.m. special meeting.

The Saugets could not be reached for comment.

The members of the committee — aldermen John Ervin, Vic Valentine and George Lewis — either declined to comment or didn't return several phone calls Friday. Valentine said he was waiting to hear from other proposals first.

Werner said Little Trumpe had one major investor at the moment but was also "talking to a Las Vegas casino and a major slot machine manufacturer," as well as investment groups in Clayton and St. Louis.

He said the company had two riverboats "under contract" — one based currently on the Mississippi River and one on the Missouri River. He would not say which boats or boat companies were involved.

Werner said Little Trumpe would continue to pursue East St. Louis as its home port "unless we have something substantial from Venice."

The state gaming board is supposed award licenses by July 1, but officials have been skeptical about that deadline being met.

Only those residents using the contractors will have to pay for collection services, Hanke said. He called this system more fair than taxing the entire community for services that may not be used by everyone.

Another advantage to the new collection system, Hanke said, is that it will encourage residents to learn more environmentally beneficial habits like mulching leaves and leaving grass clippings in place.

Hanke said residents will just have to get used to the new system. "There is always confusion when you change anything," he said.

project, it's do-able and there is no risk to the convention authority," Fears said.

"We're talking about a multi-million facility that would be a tremendous economic boon to the region," Brombolich said.

Authority members were wary but were assured that applying for the grant did not commit them to take further steps.

Fears and Brombolich said the authority is the only existing agency in this area that could apply for the grant.

If the Aquacenter is built, the authority would probably contract with a non-profit organization to run it, Fears said.

Leonard Sonnenschein, president of St. Louis Aquacenter, was directed to Pontoon Beach by one of the board members of his group after attempts to build the facility in St. Louis stalled.

Wilson said the Aquacenter would benefit Collinsville's motels even if it is built in Pontoon Beach. "We're not that far from Collinsville," he said.

Fears said the initial feasibility study predicted the Aquacenter would attract 850,000 to 1 million visitors, an attraction comparable to the St. Louis Zoo.

All but one of the 22 Aquacenters in the U.S. including Shedd Aquarium in Chicago, make money, Fears said. "They've become enormous attractions."

Proponents say the Aquacenter would be much more than a place to view aquatic life. They say the facility would include educational exhibits that would feature the ecology of the Mississippi River area.

Fears said there is "strong interest" by the state in giving a $600,000 study grant. Legislation that could result in a construction grant could be considered by the General Assembly in the November veto session, he said.

Fears' influence with state officials has been considered vital in getting state assistance to build the Regional State Headquarters and Gateway Center.

Authority member Chuck Tennant said the Aquacenter "goes along with what we're doing" to make Collinsville a destination. "This is another drawing card."

GRANITE CITY HOME JOURNAL

RICH SCHARDAN (left) outduelled Edwardsville's Tom Price (right) in a 3-1 win for Post 113 on Thursday. Schardan allowed a first-inning home run to Mark Little, but pitched around three errors and blanked Post 199 for the last six innings. It was the first loss for Price (13-0 in high school) since last summer's American Legion state tournament.

Triplets beat Price Smithton loss leaves Post 113 in 1st-place tie

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — The Triplets took quite a rollercoaster ride this week.

After losing 5-4 to Belleville on Tuesday in one of the ugliest games ever played, Post 113 spoiled the heights Thursday, knocking off Tom Price and Edwardsville 3-1 behind a solid pitching performance from Rich Schardan.

But it was right back down to earth Friday as Jamie Needham had a poor start and the Triplets committed five errors in a 10-6 loss to Smithton (4-4). That leaves Post 113 with a 5-4 record at the halfway point of the District 22 season, good for a first-place tie in the North Division with Alton. Those are the only two teams in the North above .500.

Thursday was the big night. The Triplets handed Price only his second loss in the last three years. The Notre Dame-bound lefthander allowed eight hits, including the game-winning single by Joe Wallace that drove in Jim McKechnan in the fifth.

"I couldn't believe they pitched to me," said Wallace. Tommy said Edwardsville manager Ken Schaafe told him to either walk me or at least not give me anything good to hit. He also told him not to throw me a changeup, which I can't figure out. But it was a 3-2 fastball down the middle, although (catcher) Mark (Little) said it was on the ball."

McKechnan had doubled with two outs in the fifth and moved up to third on a wild pitch before Wallace's hit. Wallace stole second and scored when second baseman Steve Flowers booted Brian Harshany's ground ball.

Trittschuhs back from Italy

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Jack and Carol Trittschuh are back in town after the experience of a lifetime.

The Trittschuhs saw their son, Steve, play in the 1989 World Cup in Italy. They got back Thursday — exhausted but with a ton of memories.

"You just can't put it into words," said Carol Trittschuh. "We just felt so important. It was like being a part of history and there was my son down there on the field."

The Trittschuhs were the only Granite Cityans to make the trip. Steve's wife, Suzanne, also made the trip, which was paid for by Chiquita, Budweiser and Adidas.

"Everyone was very cordial over there," said Jack Trittschuh. "And we didn't see any fan violence where we were."

Steve plays for the Tampa Bay Rowdies.

"He got back Thursday and they had a hard practice (Friday) and a game Saturday," said Carol.

Trittschuh played only in the first game, a 5-1 U.S. loss to Czechoslovakia.

"He knew he didn't have a real good game," said Jack. "He was disappointed not to play after that, but it was still a great honor being there."

Jack said there were perhaps between 1,000 and 2,000 Americans in Italy, but they were scattered out fairly well at the games. They flew out of Rome on Wednesday — four hours late and stayed in New York on Wednesday night before flying into St. Louis on Thursday. Jack, who works at Granite City Steel, and Carol, a nurse, will go back to work Monday with plenty to tell their co-workers.

More on Trittschuh will appear in a later edition.

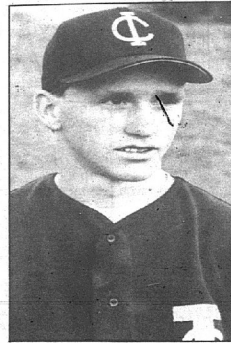

Rich Wilson leads IC with .414 mark

Rich Wilson of Granite City batted .414 and was named to the All-Midwest Athletic Conference South Division Team as well as the NCAA Division III All-Midwest Team as a junior outfielder at Illinois College in Jacksonville.

Wilson, a 1987 graduate of Granite City High School, earned the team's Most Valuable Defensive Player Award. He handled 46 chances without an error as the Blueboys' center fielder. At the plate, his .414 average led the team and his .465 average in conference play was fifth in the league.

Wilson led the team with 29 hits and tied with Russ Hickman for the team lead with four home runs. He drove in 13 runs and was closer behind Hickman with a .671 slugging percentage.

Hickman, Wilson and shortstop Mark Warfield have been selected IC's team captains for 1991. The Blueboys finished third in the South Division with a 7-7 league mark (9-14 overall). They hit .348 as a team.

'Nightline' booted for 'Arsenio'

KTVI-TV (Channel 2) may have begun the long march back to ratings respectability. The station has hired Dana James, an anchor/reporter for KABC-TV in Los Angeles. James probably will anchor the 6 p.m. newscast when Channel 2 reinstates that program some time "by the first of the year, I hope," Channel 2 news director Bill Berra said. Channel 2 canceled its 6 p.m. news in fall 1988 because of poor ratings.

"We're not going to put it on the air just to get a newscast on the air," he said. "We want it to be good."

But you can expect to see James on the air long before then. Channel 2 did not lure an anchor away from Los Angeles to become a general assignment reporter in St. Louis. James arrives in the Channel 2 newsroom July 2. Expect her to be visible during the VP Fair and behind an anchor desk soon thereafter.

James, from Ohio, will fill in for anchors on vacations. Berra said, adding, "She does have the experience." No one is leaving as a result of James' arrival, he said.

A source indicated Channel 2 has conducted negotiations with at least one other female anchor with major-market experience.

Also, the station, which has been a distant third in the ratings, has announced it has bought the rights to "Arsenio Hall" from Paramount and will begin running the show at 10:30 p.m. Jan. 1, 1991, a move that could help draw viewers to its 10 p.m. newscast. "Arsenio Hall" has been running on KMOV-TV (Channel 4), and has helped boost that station's late-night newscast ratings.

Alan Cohen, vice president and general manager of Channel 4, said his station did not renew "Arsenio" because of the "baggage" that Paramount had attached to it. Cohen refused to elaborate.

However, informed speculation in the industry suggests that Paramount packaged "Arsenio" with "The Party Machine," a dance show hosted by Nia Peeples.

Wayne Thomas, vice president and general manager of Channel 2, confirmed that the station agreed to the package and, beginning Jan. 8, will run "The Party Machine" at 11:30 p.m., following "Arsenio Hall." The new lineup means Channel 2 no longer will carry ABC's "Nightline," which would have had to run at midnight, a time slot unacceptable to the network, Thomas said.

The programming changes could mean the end of "Nightline" in St. Louis, unless one of the independents picks it up. Ian MacBryde is an independent video producer and former television executive.

Six Flags honors Bugs Bunny

Bugs Bunny will be the guest of honor during Six Flags Over Mid-America's seven-month 1990 season.

Guests will be greeted at the front gate by a 12-foot-tall, logo commemorating the 50th birthday of Bugs, and by birthday banners on lamp posts and life-sized cutouts of Bugs Bunny and his Looney Tunes friends throughout the park.

In Looney Tunes Town, fans will be able to visit Bugs' "private dressing room," Studio B, and get his autograph, and visit three new attractions: the Tasmanian Devil Twister, the Speedy Gonzales Speedway and the PePe LePew Pouncing Party.

"Bugs Bunny Fantasy on Ice," a 20-minute musical show also will be performed daily by Looney Tunes characters and skating professionals in the Bugs Bunny Theater in Looney Tunes Town.

The 220-acre park also will feature a variety of Bugs Bunny merchandise, Bugs Bunny-shaped french fries, Bugs Bunny fruit sippers, a special birthday theme song and a nightly fireworks display.

Six Flags opens at 10 a.m. daily through Labor Day.
